Version No: 4.1

Introduction

1. The primary objective of the Accounting Professional & Ethical Standards Board Limited (APESB) is to develop and issue, in the public interest, professional and ethical standards, and other pronouncements that will apply to members of CPA Australia (CPAA), Chartered Accountants Australia and New Zealand (CA ANZ) and the Institute of Public Accountants (IPA), collectively the Professional Bodies.
2. A further objective of the APESB is to monitor the needs of the accounting profession and the public with a view to determining areas requiring new or updated professional and ethical standards or guidance notes.
3. The APESB recognises that its professional and ethical standards and guidance notes play an important role in the education of members and students of the Professional Bodies and that this has a beneficial effect on the accounting profession. For this reason the APESB makes its standards and guidance notes widely available, free of charge, to members and students of the Professional Bodies and other key stakeholders identified by the APESB, including Australian bodies involved in the provision of graduate, post graduate and diploma qualifications in Accounting (including Universities), as regulated by the laws of each State and Territory in Australia.
4. By publishing this Copyright Policy the APESB does not intend to restrict the extent to which members and students of the Professional Bodies and key stakeholders use the APESB standards and guidance notes. Rather, the APESB intends to:
 - (a) guard against inappropriate use of the standards and guidance notes; and
 - (b) control publication, reproduction, adaptation and communication of the standards and guidance notes.

Copyright Policy

5. APESB owns or licenses the copyright in the standards, guidance notes and other material created by or on behalf of APESB (APESB Works). No person may publish, reproduce, adapt, communicate to the public, or make use of those materials otherwise than in accordance with this Copyright Policy.
6. Subject to clause 7 below, APESB will permit a third party to publish, reproduce, adapt, communicate or make use of the APESB Works at no cost and without the need to obtain permission from the APESB provided that the third party is:
 - (a) a key stakeholder or Australian body pursuant to clause 3 and the use of the APESB Works is solely for the purpose of private study, research or for educational purposes;
 - (b) a member or a student of one or more of the Professional Bodies and the use of the APESB Works occurs in the course of that member's or student's education, public practice or business; or
 - (c) a Professional Body, who may use it to form the basis of educational and other guidance material for their members provided that APESB Works are not modified.

7. The following terms apply to third parties wishing to publish, reproduce, adapt, communicate or make use of the APESB Works under clause 6:
- (a) The Professional Bodies may utilise extracts from the APESB Works (other than the APESB Works described in 7(c) below) when creating content, but must in doing so provide the following reference to such extracts:

"Sourced from the copyright owner, Accounting Professional & Ethical Standards Board Limited (APESB) at [Insert date material was provided to you]. To ensure you are aware of the latest information provided by APESB please visit [<http://www.apesb.org.au>] or contact APESB directly."
 - (b) If Professional Bodies seek to use APESB Works as permitted by clause 7(a), they acknowledge and agree that APESB does not grant them permission to use any materials provided by third parties that may be used in APESB Works (Third Party Works). Any use of Third Party Works without obtaining prior permission from the copyright owner may breach the provisions of the Copyright Act 1968 (Cth); and
 - (c) Certain APESB Works are based on material that has been created by the International Federation of Accountants (IFAC) and are licensed to the APESB. Those works are identifiable from the copyright statements published with those works. The third parties described in clause 6(a) to (c) above are permitted to reproduce these works strictly for the purposes described in clause 6(a) to (c) above without the need to obtain permission from the IFAC or APESB, provided that the works are reproduced in unaltered form and retain the copyright statement published with the work.
8. In all other circumstances, a third party wishing to publish, reproduce, adapt, communicate or make use of the APESB Works must obtain the prior written permission of the APESB. All such requests must be submitted in accordance with the guidelines in Appendix 1. The APESB may, at its absolute discretion, refuse to grant a third party permission to publish, reproduce, adapt, communicate or make use of the APESB Works.
9. Where a third party seeks a licence to publish, reproduce, adapt, communicate or make use of the APESB Works for commercial purposes¹, the APESB may, at its absolute discretion, impose conditions on any licence and require payment of a fee in consideration of the APESB's grant of any such licence. For the avoidance of doubt, the APESB may, at its absolute discretion, refuse to grant a licence for commercial purposes.
10. Any third party who publishes, reproduces, adapts, communicates or makes use of the APESB Works (whether in accordance with clauses 6 and 7 or having obtained written permission from the APESB) must ensure the following acknowledgment is clearly visible alongside the APESB Works, in addition to any of the referencing requirements specified in clause 7:

"Reproduced with the permission of the copyright owner or authorised licensee, Accounting Professional & Ethical Standards Board Limited (APESB), Australia"
11. All parties agree that they will not subject the APESB Work to any derogatory treatment or deal with the APESB Work in any way that may constitute a derogatory treatment. No moral rights as granted by Part IX of the Copyright Act 1968 (Cth) are waived by any person.

12. The APESB only permits use of its name and any of its trade marks strictly in accordance with clauses 6, 7 and 8. APESB does not permit the use of its name or trade marks by any party if such use is likely to:
- (a) cause or is likely to cause a reasonable person to believe that the third party has some association or affiliation with, or sponsorship or approval of, the APESB that it does not have; or
 - (b) the use by the third party constitutes trade mark infringement.

¹ For the purposes of this policy, “commercial purposes” includes any use of the APESB Works by an accounting body (other than a Professional Body) and any use which is likely to result in financial gain or other financial or commercial benefit to a third party (whether or not that third party is the requesting party).
